There is another person who was intimately involved and has knowledge of the money-funneling scheme. His name is Robert Boyle and he is a senior architect at Tate Snyder Kimsey. When the coercion for campaign contributions was occurring, Windom Kimsey, and possibly William Snyder, directed Robert Boyle to immediately contact all of the engineering consultants who were assigned to the Otay-Mesa Border Crossing project design team. These were some of the first individuals contacted to make contributions to the Harry Reid campaign. I have firsthand knowledge that Robert Boyle, under the direction of Windom Kimsey, was actively participating in the coercion effort from February 1 through February 17. Robert Boyle is also one of the individuals that I believe money was funneled through to make contributions to the Harry Reid campaign. He is usually near his office telephone during the day, 702-456-3000. Or, you can reach him by his cell phone,

It has been brought to my attention that William Snyder and Windom Kimsey may, or possibly already have, direct that all electronic documents or files related to these crimes be permanently removed from the company computer hard drives. The individual that would be directed to do this would be the office manager of information technology, Tom Lisciandra. Tom has access to every computer and all electronic files in the office and can easily recover or locate all files related to these crimes. He can be reached at the office as well, 702-456-3000, or at his cell phone,

I believe that both of these individuals will be willing to discuss the campaign-funneling scheme if they fully understand the legal ramifications of attempting to conceal the illegal activities that took place.

Sincerely,

Randy Spitzmesser
